

HITTING THE FESTIVAL CIRCUIT

SOME USEFUL WEBSITES

1. Directories of festivals

www.filmfestivals.com - Too much information perhaps and no search function to identify shorts festivals solely but worth looking at nonetheless.

www.filmfestivalworld.com – Again no search function specifically for shorts festivals but pretty comprehensive in it's listings

<http://www.isfc.com.au> - This is the site of the International Short Film Conference. Go to 'Members' link for a useful list of good festivals committed to the short film form, whether dedicated to shorts or, like Cork, mixed festivals with a significant shorts section.

2. Three festival entry systems

www.shortfilmdepot.com

Registration to short film festivals – 23 festivals currently.

www.reelport.com - digital submissions, upload once and then submit.

www.withoutabox.com - has a good FAQ

3. A very short selection of useful festivals

Clermont Ferrand Short Film Festival, France: www.clermont-filmfest.com

Aspen Short Film Festival, USA: www.aspenfilm.org/index.cfm?S=1:2

Flickerfest, Australia: www.flickerfest.com.au

Hamburg Short Film Festival, Germany: www.shortfilm.com

Sao Paulo Short Film Festival, Brazil: www.kinoforum.org

Oberhausen Short Film Festival, Germany: www.kurzfilmtage.de

Tampere Short Film Festival, Finland: www.tamperefilmfestival.fi

Vila do Conde, Portugal: www.curtasmetragens.pt

'Short As Long As It Takes' section of the Rotterdam Film Festival, The Netherlands: www.filmfestivalrotterdam.com

www.shortfilmcorner.com Cannes, registration through withoutabox, €75 per film.

Cork Film Festival: mick@corkfilmfest.org. www.corkfilmfest.org.

NB The information above is intended as a guideline only. Anyone submitting their film to festivals should conduct their own research before doing so, particularly with regard to application requirement/deadlines etc....
